ABSTRACT

This list of citations covers three broad areas: (1) redefining librarianship: organizations, people, and technology: (2) continuing education for librarians: and (3) librarians and libraries in the 1980's: the White House Conference on Library and Information Services (WHCLIS) and beyond. The last is divided into three main sections devoted to (1) pre-conferences and related activities held prior to WHCLIS, (2) the conference itself, and (3) recent writings concerned with libraries and librarians in the 1980's and after. In addition, the bibliography includes listings of publications by three Library Association of the City University of New York (LACUNY) Institute speakers: Susan K. Martin, Director of Libraries at Johns Hopkins University; Gretchen Redfield, consultant on programs in continuing education in Denver, Colorado: and Peggy Sullivan, President of the American Library Association. LIBRARIES AND LIBRARIANS IN THE 80'S: OUR COMMON GROUND/ THE WHITE HOUSE CONFERENCE AND BEYOND

"As libraries of all types face the 1980's, they will be aware of the agenda which the White House Conference has set for them. To the best of our knowledge now, the library history of the coming decade will be written in terms of the priorities identified at state and national conferences; all of them, in one way or another, call for action to improve the accessibility of information to people: literacy, networking, international data flow, serving the unserved. The tools we will use to implement these will be varied and will include: legislation, creative institutional initiatives, devotion to the resource sharing way of life, and development of the informational skills of both libraries and patrons -- people of all ages and from all walks of life. As 1979 fades into the past, we can see the agenda was there all the time; the White House Conference wrote it large for us."

Noel Savage, "News Report 1979," Library Journal, 105 (January 15, 1980), 181.

This portion of the 1980 LACUNY Institute Bibliography is divided into three main sections devoted to, respectively (1) pre-conferences and related activities held prior to the White House Conference on Library and Information Services (which took place November 15 to 19, 1979);(2) the White House Conference itself; and (3) recent writings concerned with libraries and librarians in the coming decade and after. Each main section is further subdivided in a manner appropriate to the material.

Throughout the bibliography, the acronym "WHCLIS" has been used as substitute for "White House Conference", "White House Conference on Library and Information Services", and for the alternative acronym, "WHCOLIS", wherever one of these forms has been found in a title.
